MEDFORD HIGH SCHOOL

Ralph L. Kendall
Headmaster

IN THE three years spent at Medford High School, the patience and friendliness of our beloved headmaster have meant much to us. On going on to other fields, we shall remember always the friendly part which he played in our lives.

Foreword

IN PRESENTING this issue of The Blue and White, the editors and staff also present the fond memories and eager hopes of the class of nineteen hundred and thirty-nine. For three years we have worked and played together, and now, at last, we have reached the point where we shall no longer be united in one group. If, in future years, this book lends color and freshness to your memories, we shall consider it a success.

BIOGRAPHY GIRLS

Biography Girls

Weeks of fears and weeks of worries —
Who will write the lines beside
Senior pictures in the Year Book?
Will they make us want to hide?

Nearer, nearer comes our class day,
Year Books are at last sent out;
Secretly each finds his picture,
Sheepishly he looks about.

No one's looking — takes a peep,
Reads the line in one quick glance,
Reads it once, then reads it over,
Then each smiles as in a trance.

Line fits . . . yes, we really like it!
Let's see now we realize why:
Miss Daggett and her class of maidens
Have slaved for us as weeks flew by.

Pleased with lines that are successful,
We extend our thanks to you,
And looking at eight hundred pupils
We realize all that you've been through.

A Word of Appreciation

No one has worked harder on, or thought more about, The Blue and White than Miss Lyons. To her, we express the deepest thanks, not only for her invaluable help with the Year Book, but for her friendly interest in all our affairs.

SENIOR PLAY CAST

Senior Play

For weeks before, those near and dear to the high school students were beleaguered with requests of "Wanna buy a ticket to the Senior play?" Thus, it was a generous audience that arrived Wednesday evening, April fifteenth, to view New Brooms, the thespian production of the class of 1939. That of the second evening was even larger and more enthusiastic than the first.

The disadvantages of the stage in our auditorium were well obscured by the clever work of the stage hands, who worked diligently at setting the scene. As usual, the ushers and candy girls performed their duties in a gracious manner, and the members of the other senior play committees co-operated to the fullest extent in making the affair a success.

New Brooms was definitely a success, financially and dramatically. Each member of the cast played his part well, whether it was large or small.

Fred Whittemore delighted the audience with his portrayal of Thomas Bates, the stern business man with no illusions. His exits were invariably followed by applause, as he displayed histrionic talent heretofore suspected by few. As Thomas Bates, Junior, Donald King was "nice," or ill-tempered as the scene required. Annabel Cofran, in the role of Geraldine Marsh, was a charming heroine, while Mary King really was the flirtatious Florence Wheeler, whom she portrayed. Bob Magown deserves special commendation for his fine work as George Morrow, the super-salesman from Texarkana. The audience just had to laugh at his — er, shall we say, "corny" jokes; as for Bob's own laughter, well we don't know how he did it, but it was amazing. When Williams, the butler, appeared on the stage, we had to look twice, and then again, for Russell MacPherson was completely transformed. Appearance, voice, gesture, the very walk were different from those of the energetic MacPherson of everyday. Williams, — or, Russell, made an unimportant part outstanding.

The other members of the cast all held the attention of the audience. Now we know what Warren Schofield will look like in thirty years, for he played the part of Mr. Kneeland, staunch friend of Mr. Bates. As Margaret, the irate housekeeper, Barbara Mullen was most entertaining. Mary LeBlanc and Alan Perry made the most of their parts: those of Ethel Bates and Wally Nowell. To say that both were completely natural in their roles is the highest praise, for it is a conceded fact that it is exceedingly difficult to act natural on the stage. Bruce MacDonald, the Reverend Dow, was at once sympathetic and demanding; Irving Richardson, as Simpson, the contractor, and Malcom Marcus, as Nelson, a worker in the Bates factory complete the list of the well trained, efficient cast.

There will be no more tedious rehearsals; the play has closed its two-night run. Alas for the excitement of the opening night, the thrill of performing before an eager audience, the play is over. Mr. Carey can rest easily now, while the cast returns to the humdrum life of college boards and homework. Meanwhile, we who saw the play shall always remember the marvelous performance of New Brooms.

"NEW BROOMS"

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

Thanksgiving Assembly

A departure from the usual one-act play was made in the presentation of a satire in radio style of the events which occur on Thanksgiving morning just before and during the classic Medford-Malden contest.

Frank Fardie, as radio commentator, opened the program with the explanation that the listeners would be taken to the Medford High School field locker room and playing field where an eye witness's account of events would be given.

Interpretations of various spectators were given by Vincent Carcione. Among the characters who made comments on the ensuing contest were Hazenfeller Q. Crunch, morning cereal magnate; Mr. Mortimer Swerve, of Saugus Soup Bowl Committee; Mr. Cunning Pan of Ladies' Home Journal; Mr. Gladiolus W. Adlepuss, man in the street; Harry N. Thuse, Medford sophomore, and "Slippery" Cal, graduate of Medford High School.

From outside the field Fardie took the radio audience into the Medford locker room where the boys were introduced. After they had donned their helmets and jerseys, the lads were accompanied in an opening chorus by the Medford High Band. The band, which was conducted in all maneuvers by the versatile Carcione who had donned a costume nonpareil for the occasion, was clothed in disreputable garments and played harmonicas.

After the chorus each lad, impersonating a Medford football player, was introduced to the audience at the microphone, where he recited eight lines of poetry concerning his name, position, and promises of future valor. The coaches and referee also took part.

Led by the band the team left the locker room for the field, where the band again went through maneuvers endeavoring to form an "M." After winding up in a "Z," an "S," and a questionable figure "M," it shook hands all around.

Then on came the second team which ran through signals. At that moment the band started to march. Pandemonium reigned as it knocked down all the second team and on the return trip threw the boys to the ground once more as they struggled to their feet. When the second team recovered composure, it clambered to the bench where it played patty-cake, jack-knife, and mumblety-peg until the first team arrived.

In the confusion of kicking, Margie kicked Murphy to the ground; Walcott very nearly killed the guards in the calisthenics; and Wood almost lost his life at the edge of the stage.

Then Capt. Conti called the toss of the coin. After much fumbling Coach Buckley was the only man with a coin. When it was tossed in the air, Capt. Conti lost it in his larynx as the coin inadvertently dropped into the aperture created by a wondering expression and upturned face.

Malden kicked off to Medford. Margie deflated the ball. He ran for a touchdown. He blew up the ball and handed it to the referee.

Then Medford kicked off. The gas-filled balloon went out of sight, causing great consternation among players. Finally, the referee awarded the ball to Medford for such a prodigious feat.

Television took a hand when the next play ran frontward — then everything reversed, announcer's words as well.

Murphy, who became embroiled with referee, lost fifteen yards. When the referee was hit by Murphy again, he not only took back the fifteen yards, but added five in Medford's favor.

The satirical farce ended on that ridiculous note as announcer Frank Fardie brought the assembly to a close.

Mr. Ricker wrote and directed all dialogue, poetry, and music throughout. Mr. Horwood aided in the dialogue of the expert commentators before the game.

SENIOR

OUR SENIOR PROM

The Senior Prom

As soft strains of music drifted to every corner of the armory, gay couples thronged into the brightly decorated drill shed to be escorted through the receiving line and to partake in the outstanding social event of the year, the Senior Prom. The music changed to a lively tempo as the dancers glided rhythmically beneath colorful yellow streamers radiating from a crystalline ball of shimmering blue cellophane. The walls were arrayed in alternating panels of blue and white, covered with attractive figures of skiers and skaters. The center of attraction, the orchestra, was accented by drapes of yellow and white around the platform.

The highlight of the evening was the grand march. The colorful array of dresses offered a spectacle never to be forgotten by those attending and added greatly to the brilliance of the affair. At the conclusion of the grand march each young lady was presented with a hammered silver pin marked with the numerals 39, and each young man, a tie pin of the same design. These attractive favors were chosen with great care by the favor committee and proved to be an excellent choice.

A great amount of credit is due to the energetic planning committees for making this dance one of the gayest and most successful affairs of the Senior year.

The receiving line included Head Master and Mrs. Ralph L. Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Weldon, Miss Irene Hall, Mr. Raymond Flynn.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL FACULTY

Vocational School

It is the aim of the Vocational School to fit boys for useful employment through the development of the occupational skill required for the performance of satisfactory work under actual employment conditions in the following trades: automobile, cabinet making, electricity, machine shop, painting and decorating, printing, and sheet metal.

One half of the time is devoted to actual shop work and the other half to related and academic work. The laboratory method of instruction which is used in the related classes is very closely correlated with the shop work. This close tie-up assures a thorough training in shop and technical information.

The school attempts to prepare the boy morally, intellectually, and physically for the vocation for which he seems to be best fitted by nature, ability, and opportunity; at the completion of his course the school places the student in the industry trained for, keeps in touch with his progress, and encourages his promotion.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL COUNCIL

Ivy Oration

These Class Day exercises represent our last assembly as undergraduates. It is fitting, therefore, that our president, loyal to the traditions of Medford High School, has planted a twig of ivy. We of the graduating class of 1939 are happy and proud to be able, through this farewell gesture, to manifest to all concerned our appreciation for their efforts in preparing us for future endeavor.

This immature twig in its early development will be symbolic of our past three years. Its chief concern now, as was our primary interest three years ago, is to grow. The ivy will advance slowly until the vine is strong enough to maintain its place on the wall. As sophomores, we likewise, were some months in adjusting ourselves to our new environment until, at length, we learned to disregard the helpful suggestions of the seniors who led many of us on a fruitless search for the elevator in the basement. As the ivy progresses, it extends its tendrils, spreading its leafy vestiture over an appreciable area. We too began to expand, once we became accustomed to our new school, and branched out from Cæsar's march across the Rubicon to the mystifying algebraic formulæ and French conjugations.

But in the same way that this ivy is symbolic of our past few years, so, also, does it express our aspirations for the future. We both seek heights. It is natural that the ivy will grasp a firm hold on the bare wall, ultimately winding its way to the top with an inevitability which we envy. I say, "we envy," because in our striving we have none of the ivy's sureness of reaching our supreme goals. It should be granted that we may not all become Lindberghs or Florence Nightingales; nevertheless, each of us has a niche to fill in life. Let us then, by imitating the patient, perservering climb of this vine, strive to fill that niche as worthily as possible.

It is not so easy to prophesy your future and mine as it is that of the ivy. We do not know what is in store for us, nor do we know what circumstances will arise to determine our occupations ten years from now. Perhaps it will be simpler to place the future in the background of our thoughts and to concentrate on to-day and the many to-days that will follow.

It is true, of course, that in the general order we are born, we grow, we die. But so likewise will a weed in a garden of roses sprout, grow, and die. Shall we liken ourselves to the weed which, being denied the beauty of the rose, leads a life of colorless existence? Or rather shall we not, by cultivating our every possibility, assume the loveliness and splendor of the refined garden? In so doing, we are not setting aside the ivy's virtues, less spectacular though they be. Indeed its very ruggedness and tenacity impress us as basic in development. Yet to stop here would be folly. Life was meant to be beautiful, and it is our privilege, yes, our duty to make it so. Courtesy, loyalty, and integrity,—these are qualities which, we know, make for beauty in character. But they are not acquired without sincere effort. Still who will deny that the differences between the man who exerts this effort and the man who does not is as great as the difference between the weed and the rose? Can anyone deny that the beauty of the rose is worth striving for?

Admittedly we have all had the advantages of a sound secondary school training. Whether or not we go on to a higher institution of learning, none of us needs be deprived of further real growth. In reality, our minds and hearts are eager for more beauty and higher ideals. Shall we not, then, by interpreting these standards in terms of every simple act of daily living, be cultivating ourselves in the way of dauntless character? If our aims are low or if we slacken our pace during our striving, we shall stunt our growth. Remember Browning's words: "A man's reach should exceed his grasp." And by erecting a goal high on the pinnacle of our ideals, we may hope to fulfill our ambitions and to make our lives a contribution to the whole of life. What if we do not, unlike the ivy, reach the summit? This question is answered beautifully by the words of the late Hila Helen Small. I quote a stanza of her poem, The Quest, as a fitting close to the message I hope to leave with you:

"No matter if you never gain the goal!
'Tis what you do while striving on the way
That makes your growth of character and soul
The real objective in this world, today."

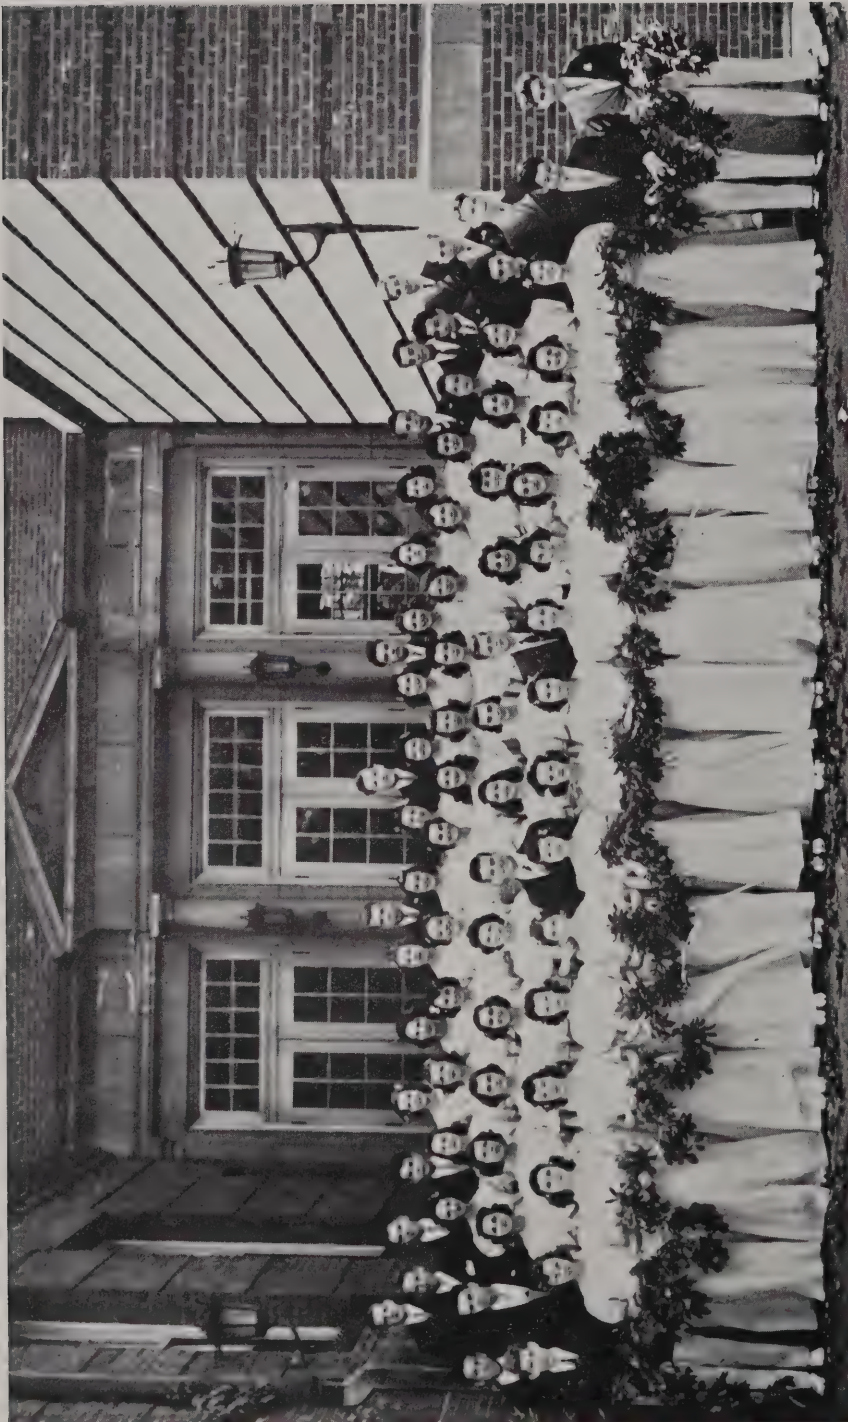

V. HERBERT FAZIO

Class Gift

In consideration of the fact that Dr. J. Stevens Kadesch, Superintendent of Schools of the City of Medford, was Headmaster of the Senior High School from 1921 to 1930; and that Donald B. Kadesch, his son, is a member of the graduating class, the gift committee was glad of the opportunity to honor Dr. Kadesch by the selection of his portrait, in oil, by Wilbur Ficke Noyes, as the gift of the Class of 1939 to Medford High School.

At the Class Day exercises, in the Medford Theatre, John Amato presented the gift to Mr. Ralph L. Kendall, Headmaster, who accepted it in the name of the school. Fred Whittemore and Claire Tryder, members of the gift committee, unveiled the portrait, which will be given a place of prominence in the new building.

CLASS DAY MARSHALS AND USHERS

Class Day

Ushers in immaculate flannels and marshals in delicate organdy escorted the Class of 1938 from the Medford Theatre to the lawn of the Medford High School. Murmurs of admiration rose from the throng of admirers who watched the colorful procession wending its way through the streets. As they stood on the front steps of the high school, the pale blue of the girls' gowns contrasted sharply with the chains of dark green laurel which they carried; posed in this manner, the group formed an effective background for the delivery of the Ivy Oration and the Class Will. Later, at the Senior Reception, the marshals and ushers performed their duties in a charming manner, ushering the gay seniors to the receiving line. Their last appearance was at the graduation exercises in Cousens Gymnasium, where they again served as ushers and formed a picturesque background.

Class Oration

The Tyranny of Trifles

Upon receiving the honor of being chosen orator, one's first impression is a sort of intoxicating appreciation and a desire to create an effort worthy of his optimistic classmates. One realizes that he shall need wings. Then in the calm which follows he begins to analyze the situation — turns to the dictionary only to find the rather breathtaking challenge: an orator is one distinguished for skill and power. Being conscious of my limitations, I ask your indulgence in my pretence to appear at once skillful and powerful when talking of the commonplace.

"It is the little things in life that count—" an old adage, quite true, but it is still just as potent as when first coined. So many of us today are in such a hurry to accomplish big things that we miss the most worthwhile things because often they appear so insignificant. J. H. Miller has said: "It is not from the few conspicuous deeds of life that the blessings chiefly come which make the world better, sweeter, happier; is it from the countless lowly ministries of the everydays, the little faithfulnesses which fill the long years."

Illustrating the value of little things, the story is told of a tribe of cannibals that took possession of a whaling vessel and bound the man who was left in charge. The crew on returning, saw the condition and scattered tacks on the deck. The savages fought fiercely against lance and sword, but when they hit the tacks with their bare feet, they jumped overboard. A mere handful of tacks, but they kept the crew from being the main dish of a tribal stew.

Again, the wonderful and most useful steam engine was invented as the result of a completely unknown boy's watching steam rise from an equally unimportant teakettle.

In like manner, the art of printing owes its origin to the simple impression taken from letters carved on the bark of an inconspicuous tree.

Newton might not be the famous man he is today, if he had not been hit on the head by an apple while sleeping under a tree. That apple was just as ordinary as any others on the tree, but it certainly did wonders for Sir Isaac.

Goodyear almost gave up in despair trying to find a way to vulcanize rubber, when, quite by accident, he dropped a tiny piece on a conveniently hot stove. Thus was paved the way for a vast manufacture of vulcanized rubber.

Then too, there was Mark Brunel, an engineer, who sought to tunnel under the Thames River. When tired of racking brain for a suitable method, he went down by the wharves. There, he observed a worm perforating timber with its armored head. A chance glance brought him the answer to his problem.

Perhaps you've heard of the rat that made Disney famous. One day a mouse started playing on a wooden floor of the garage in which Disney worked. Walt stopped and watched; then he fed him some bread crumbs. As time passed the mouse became so friendly that he climbed about Disney's drawing board. Finally, Disney went to Hollywood where he sketched "Oswald the Rabbit." This effort was a failure. One day while at work, however, he remembered the mouse who used to scamper over his pictures. Immediately he started to sketch a mouse — that's how Mickey was born.

Time prohibits further illustration of the point. It scarcely need be pointed out that in the lives of these men and countless other celebrities, an inconspicuous quality has found birth through an unimportant experience.

Throughout the twelve years of school we've been told to dot our i's, to cross our t's; to doff our hats upon entering school; to say "pardon me" when we collide in the corridor. Perhaps on occasions we've done these things rather begrudgingly, but still, we say of the letter-writer who spells words incorrectly, his education is defective; of the youth who is rude in public, he is ill bred. Though these things may seem trivial, they are nevertheless revelations.

Daylight can be seen through very small holes. In like manner, little traits shed light upon a person's character.

Why should we concern ourselves with little things? Because ninety-five per cent of our dealings will be commonplace, only five per cent of our activities will concern the extraordinary.

"Men are led by trifles." In each man lies some hidden talent, a certain something which distinguishes him and which may give him his importance; and more often than not, the commonplace, the little thing, quite by accident, may serve to reveal this quality. If we would succeed, we must take hold of the little things, for they will help us to know ourselves.

It was Samuel Johnson who said, "There is nothing, Sir, too little for so little a creature as man. It is by studying little things that we attain the great art of having as little misery and as much happiness as possible."

"Small things are best: grief and unrest
To rank and wealth are given;
But the little things on little wings
Bear little souls to Heaven."

BRUCE MACDONALD

The ring of the five of eight bell, and the Sophomores dash about.
There's a struggle to get on the inside — a surge to get in from the "out."
There is fear in the eyes of those students as down the long halls they tear
But not in the eyes of the Seniors — they're out enjoying the air.

Next the Juniors start puffing and pushing, as the clock in its place ticks on.
There were four more remaining minutes — now two of them seem to have gone.
Now the lockers stick and bother; in a rush they always do,
But a panicky, frantic motion wrenches the lock in two.

Still the lawn is covered with Seniors, as they walk to the nearest door,
They drink in the beautiful sunshine (their home rooms are on the first floor.)
And a slow and languid movement brings them easily into class.
Thus eight o'clock leisurely summons the nonchalant Senior mass.

HELEN E. GOTT.

PRIZE SPEAKERS

Prize Speaking Contest

The Prize Speaking Contest reached its climax on the evening of May 3, 1939, after three months of elimination and preparation. From an original two hundred and twenty, the field was pruned to the eight finalists. In the penultimate stages the choice of survivors was difficult, so close was the competition. The range of subjects was great.

The extemporaneous feature was introduced in the semi-finals and continued in the finals.

A large and attentive audience witnessed the finals which developed into a very close contest.

Esther Louise Borden '39 and Norman W. Ashton '40 were the first place winners. Alva M. Glidden '39 and Robert Milton Smith '39 took the two second positions.

Mr. Ralph L. Kendall, Head Master, was chairman. Hon. Pierre A. Northrup, Chairman, Mrs. Hazel Chandler Parks, and Mr. Richard Hegarty were the judges.

The orchestra's contributions to the program were excellent and drew praise from the audience.

Congratulations to Mr. John Ricker, who trained all the contestants!

SENIOR ADVISORY COUNCIL

The Senior Advisory Council

The Senior Advisory Council consists of the Senior Class Officers and sixteen additional members selected by them. These members are carefully chosen both for their ability to cooperate and for their initiative, for it is the business of the Council to insure the success of the two social highlights of the year, namely, the Senior Promenade and the Senior Reception. The Council is under the direct and excellent supervision of Miss Katherine L. Baker and Mr. Eric Harrison, Senior Class Advisers. The work of the year has been carried on through the following sub-committees:

OFFICERS

|----------------------|-----------------------------|
| President | BRUCE MACDONALD |
| Vice-President | NORMAN ASHTON |
| Secretary | VERA LANG |
| Adviser | MISS M. GERTRUDE ROUGHSEDGE |

The Student Cabinet is an organization made up of the Presidents of all the recognized school clubs, the Senior Class Officers, the Junior Class President, and the Sophomore Class President. The following constitute the members of the Cabinet of 1938-1939:

| | | | |
|--------------------------|------------------|------------------------|------------------|
| Band | ROBERT KIRKLAND | Protective Dept. | SOMES DAGLE |
| Boys' Debating Club | LEO LOSCHI | Ski Club | DONALD REID |
| Business Girls' Club | | Stamp Club | CHARLES TOLMAN |
| | CHARLOTTE ADLER | Technical Club | ROBERT DOYLE |
| Camera Club | NORMAN ASHTON | Senior President | HENRY MARGARITA |
| Cum Laude Club | JOHN COTTER | Senior Vice-President | |
| Dramatic Club | BRUCE MACDONALD | | CYNTHIA CHILD |
| G. A. A. | VIRGINIA BURRELL | Senior Treasurer | THOMAS DALY |
| Girls' Club | VERA LANG | Senior Secretary | MARY ROGERS |
| History Club | ROBERT FURLOTTE | Junior President | RUSSELL SWEET |
| Italian Club | MARY VOZZELLA | Sophomore President | |
| Varsity "M" | HENRY MARGARITA | | WILLIAM ANDERSON |

The year 1938-1939 has been one of the busiest in the history of the organization. Much was accomplished for the betterment of the school.

Among the activities was the introduction of the Graduation Club, whereby the students begin their accounts at the local bank in the sophomore year and continue weekly deposits through January of the Senior year, when the account matures. The purpose is to help defray the expenses of graduation.

Another project of the Cabinet is the Kendall Society. Under this plan, students gain membership to the society by taking part in extra-curricular activities during their three years in Senior High School. It is a distinct honor to become a member of the Kendall Society, and one for which all students strive.

The New England Division of Students Councils held its meeting at the Roxbury Memorial High School in December. Among the delegates from our school who attended was Bruce MacDonald, our President, who is also president of the State Body of Student Councils.

As a part of Student Council, the Cabinet represents the entire student body of the Medford High School. The members enjoyed a most satisfactory year.

The year 1938-1939 was the sixth in the existence of the Girls' Club. As usual, the Club maintained its active position in school life. Among the important events of the year were the fall outing, held at the Sheep Fold, and the induction of the junior girls. At Thanksgiving the Club continued its custom of donating a dinner to a needy family. In the month of December the girls attended a fashion show with their guests, the Business Girls' Club. Also in this month was the annual Christmas party, at which a group of children from the Washington school were guests.

The annual banquet took place May ninth, at the Belmont Country Club. At this time, officers for the coming year were installed and thirty sophomores became full fledged members of the Girls' Club.

Through the capable guidance of Mrs. Bagley and Miss Junkins, the continued effort of the officers and committee chairmen, and the cooperation of all members, the Medford High School Girls' Club has successfully upheld the high standards of past years.

The Girls' Athletic Association has concluded another busy and successful year under the able leadership of the president, Virginia Burrell.

This year there were many unusual activities which were enjoyed by everyone. In October, the club held a Splash Party at the Somerville Y. M. C. A. This was very unique, and all seemed to have a marvelous time. During the Varsity "M" show, twenty girls of the G. A. A. voluntarily sold candy for the benefit of the Varsity "M." A successful "Vic" dance was held in January in order to raise funds for the treasury. The annual alumnae basketball game was also held in January.

Among some of the Spring activities, a roller skating party was held May 26th, at the Technology rink. The annual spring outing took place June 10th at Salem Willows. On both of these occasions, every moment was enjoyed by all those who participated.

This year the club was privileged to welcome many sophomores as new members.

The club wishes to extend to Miss Luce sincere appreciation for her unselfish services.

The History Club completed its second successful year. It was organized for the purpose of the study of present day world affairs.

The bi-monthly meetings covered a variety of subjects among which were the present condition of China, the Civil War in Spain, and a study of Germany, India, and Czechoslovakia.

The members of the club heard many interesting talks. Among the speakers were Mr. Burton W. Irish and Mr. Raymond G. Flynn of Medford High School; Mrs. Marion Raymenton Callahan, a traveler and student in central Europe; Dr. Arthur I. Andrews, formerly professor of history in certain American and European Universities; and Mr. Philip Gallivan of the Roberts Junior High School.

The club members themselves held several round table and panel discussions. At the close of some of the meetings refreshments were enjoyed.

BUSINESS GIRLS' CLUB

The Business Girls' Club

The Business Girls' Club of the Medford High School has completed its second year. Its membership for 1938-1939 was fifty-five. The following officers have contributed much toward making this year a very progressive and successful one:

|-------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| President | CHARLOTTE ADLER |
| Vice-President | GLORIA CRISTIANO |
| Recording Secretary | GERALDINE LAMOUREAUX |
| Corresponding Secretary | PEARL ANTONOPOULOS |
| Treasurer | ANNA MALATESTA |
| Advisers | MISS HUBBARD AND MISS MACBRAYNE |

The Program Committee, under Eileen Carlin, Chairman, has provided a two-fold program by arranging both educational and social meetings. These included talks by Mr. Woodward and Mr. Rogers of the faculty, a visit to The Fisher Business School's "Open House," a talk by Miss Howe of Burdett College, and a special meeting in March when seventy junior girls were admitted to the club. This meeting was in the form of a short entertainment at which Mr. Kendall and the teachers in the Commercial Department were guests.

Following the precedent set by the first Business Girls' Club, Christmas time became its busiest season. Again this year, the girls went to work to provide gifts for Medford's underprivileged children. As a result, they dressed thirty-nine dolls and supplied many other gifts, adding to the Christmas joy of about sixty children.

This year's Club also chose the emblem of the organization. It is a rose with a quill pen crossing its stem and the initials B. G. C. attractively arranged below. At present this insignia appears on the outside cover of a tiny book-shaped pendant.

It is the aim of each succeeding group to add something permanent to the achievement of the preceding year. In this respect, the group may consider it has done its share toward making the Business Girls' Club of the Medford High School a more active and more permanent organization.

During the past school year the newly-organized Technical Club has enjoyed a splendid growth, both in numbers and in program activity. From the three high school classes in the Technical Course, an active and supporting membership of over fifty boys have availed themselves of opportunities of gaining valuable technical knowledge, exclusive of their regular assigned curricula.

Activities have included lectures, showings of industrial motion pictures, demonstrations and trips to various industrial establishments, technical schools, and engineering colleges. Included in the educational program has been the following lectures and motion pictures:

Development Program of the New England Telephone Company; Production Pictures of the Chevrolet Automobile; A Demonstration of Gas Production by the Malden Gas Company; A Talk on Aviation by Professor Carlson of Boston University; Address by Professor Tansey of Wentworth Institute.

Inspection trips have been conducted to the following plants:

The Charlestown Navy Yard; The Malden Gas Company; The General Electric Company at Lynn; Wentworth Institute; Tufts College Engineering School.

The year's program was pleasantly brought to a close with a banquet held late in May.

The Stamp Club has, since its organization in 1934, steadily increased in membership and philatelic interest. The programs during 1938 and 1939 consisted of talks by members, question contests, spelling contests, membership contests, and trading.

For the first time since the group has been organized, a dramatic performance was produced for the enjoyment of the sophomore class. This play was written for the club by Secretary Richard Biddell. The cast consisted of Richard Biddell, Robert Morse, Anna Syarse, Irene Torrey, Stanley Trott, Frederick York, Russell Montgomery, and Charles Tolman.

During the year the members received stamp prizes which had a catalogue value of over $200. These prizes were presented to participants in the numerous contests and exhibits.

The membership increased from 16 to 31 during 1938 and 1939. This certainly shows added interest which will continue to make a bigger and better club.

Since the weather man definitely nursed a grouch toward winter sports lovers this year, the season's success was somewhat impaired. Because of the lack of snow, the members of the 1938-1939 Ski Club were unable to participate in their major meet at Mount Hood in Melrose. Still the weather did not quench the ambitions of the members, for at the first sign of snow they appeared at the Brooks Estates for practice.

The outgoing members of the club wish the members of 1940 a successful year with the weather bureau and the meets.

There once was a Senior who tried all in vain
 Not to let College Boards drive him really insane,
 He'd rest while he studied; he'd concentrate hard,
 And yet there were "B's" — not a plus on his card.
 He'd study for weeks ahead of each Board
 And with each bit of knowledge his hopes fairly soared.
 Before the exams he did what they said —
 He ate and relaxed his aching old head.
 But still came the Boards in a terrible heap.
 The poor boy hardly ate or got any sleep.
 Chemistry, History, Latin, and French
 He hadn't a thirst for knowledge to quench
 And yet he wanted a college life
 Free from the worries of College Board strife.
 At last by his tenth exam, it is said
 The boy went completely out of his head.
 He murmured the date of the Treaty of Ghent,
 He figured the time that X had spent
 In digging a ditch twice as fast as Z,
 He declined Latin verbs and pronounced the French "E."
 The doctors agreed in a month he'd be dead
 So far had the boy gone out of his head.
 And yet by September what do you think!
 The boy was in college — his health "in the pink."
 Whether the boy was crazy or sane
 The college had taken him! Gone was his pain!

The Household Arts club is composed of girls in the Home Economics Department. The general aim of this club is one of service.

At Thanksgiving baskets of food were packed for two needy families. Shoes and clothing were given to the needy at Christmas. Our dance, which was held in May, was for the purpose of raising money for our yearly program. During the year we have helped in many activities of the school.

Our final meeting was at Silver Springs in the Fells. We enjoyed a social afternoon followed by a picnic supper.

The Italian Club has now concluded its fourth successful year under the supervision of Miss Marianna LaCascia.

During the current year, the Italian Club has had many interesting and instructive meetings. Two of outstanding importance were an entertaining lecture given by Miss LaCascia on "Italian Art," and a very delightful imaginary journey through Italy realistically illustrated by a most interesting set of slides.

Italian folk songs and music also constituted many enjoyable meetings.

The last function for the year was the Italian Evening at the Pops Concert, an enjoyable ending for a successful club year.

 AND MR. RICKER

The purpose of the "M" Club is to promote better school spirit athletically, socially, and scholastically at the Medford High School and to develop our own characters, as well as those of our classmates. The club strives to develop greater respect for the letter "M" as an athletic award and to develop sportsman-like conduct at all times.

Through the means of an annual play or comedy, a fund is being established to provide a scholarship for some worthy member. Any Senior of the organization may be eligible for the scholarship.

Class History

So many years have passed, crowded with the joys and sorrows of a busy life, that it is with rare pleasure that two friends and I open the cover of this dust-laden book, the Year Book of the class of 1939. As we turn the leaves, we see, here, the pictures of numerous friends whom we have all but forgotten. But, why not, this is 1959! Although time has wrought many changes, what memories surge forward as youthful faces of other days gaze at us from the pages of this book already beginning to yellow with age.

Here, before us, are the first two students to be admitted to the Cum Laude Club, an organization comprising only high ranking boys, an honor which we readily recall they maintained for three years. They are Robert Casagrande, that wise, energetic scholar, and Sumner Kitchen, with his ever-present smile and his thirst for knowledge. We but turn a single page to be reminded that they were soon joined in this distinction by three more, equally ambitious and equally prominent: George O'Hara, William Glynn, and Sabato Urano.

With this remarkable beginning it was inevitable that the following resourceful leaders be chosen: for President, William Glynn, who, active and alert, filled the position with ease; for Vice-President, Mildred Bodge, who left our family midst soon afterward; charming Vera Lang, who fulfilled her duties as Secretary most creditably; Stephen Higgins, Treasurer, than whom I can recall no one more dependable. If the pages fail to do so, I could not but be reminded how readily and willingly these four splendid officers toiled to help little Sir Sophomore along when he faltered; for, be it remembered, the way was not yet easy for the little fellow. How busily the shadows of things past clamor for recognition! This page brings to life those sophomores who represented us on the football field: powerful Jim McCarthy and driving Bob Margarita; those many girls of our class, who, that same year brought girls' sports into the news.

Do you remember our prediction that Constance DeNinno, a tiny all-sports star, versatile Anna Malatesta, and capable Marilyn Coney would someday lead our athletic teams? And daily achievements more than justified our confidence, for, ranking up among the first because of their steady, able play, these pages recall the proud records of Marjorie Morgan, Helen Colgate, Helen Frasca, Frances Mosesian, Priscilla Darling, Eleanor Desmond, Betsy Norton, and Marie Liset, valiant all, every one of them outstanding in the field of sport.

But our feats were not all those of athletic prowess. A unique organization of the school, the French Dramatic Troupe, Le Theatre dea Intrepides, presented sophomores in leading roles. Not only did this group thrill countless numbers, but through this performance were developed such excellent linguists as Alan Perry and Sumner Kitchen, the "sowers of the field." And here are others of that cast not to be forgotten! Surely you remember lovely Doris Fleming as the beautiful rose, and talented Donald Kadesch as the practical melon. Ah, there, indeed, was a performance to remember!

But we must hasten on, for other pages of sophomore history beckon. Here is our story in the field of literature and dramatics. How it all comes back! Deemed worthy of positions on the staff of the Review, our school magazine, in those early days were Mabel Rinehart, Alan Perry, Donald Quinn, and Robert Picavet. This next picture, that of the Dramatic Club, brings to mind the ability and promise which, even then, Fred Whittemore showed when first he appeared on our high school stage in the performance, The Silence of God. Nor is this all,— for we were a friendly class and must have our social whirl. Yes, here is the Sophomore Hop, which proved our class outstanding socially as well as scholastically. The pictures, however, tell the fuller story, for such success would not have been assured had it not been for the steady, unswerving efforts of Stuart Hurley, Sumner Kitchen, Bruce MacDonald, Jeanne Moses, Florence Noble, Wilfred Strickland, Phyllis Thibodeau, and Claire Tryder.

The highlight of the year, we recall, was the second annual Music Festival, an event which also starred one from our very midst. Do you remember the silver tones of Rollinson's march so stirringly played by William Glynn? Listen, even now the very music arises from the pages.

As those martial notes float away, leaving in their stead such sweet memories, we reluctantly close the book on the sophomore saga; but we shall never cease to recall again and again, the happy, carefree days which were destined so soon to quicken their pace to keep step with the rapid strides of time.

The junior class brings dreams anew, for as we view the fading past and dream of days that have fled so fast, we wander back to that delightful year. As juniors, we were too old to act like a bewildered sophomore; yet a wee bit young to act like the dignified senior. Somehow it gave one a peculiar feeling to be a junior. Only you who have been through this experience realize how we juniors of the class of 1939 approached that lofty state. We felt so relieved to have finished our first year, however, that we entered upon the second with great zeal.

As we turn the leaves of the Year Book, we see that smiling Jack Amato, a fearless lad, was the popular choice for President; Rita Rogers, a little girl with a charming manner, was Vice-President; Priscilla Anderson, a sweet, capable miss, was elected to take the notes; while competent Thomas Dyer, a worthy boy, was entrusted with the treasury funds.

Those were the days when football cast its magic spell over us; never shall we forget those exciting afternoons as we listened to the stirring music of the band, sang the school songs, and cheered the team on to victory. Now as we turn the pages, we see again, pictures of bold Margarita, a plucky lad; carefree Rando Moschella, who feared no enemy large or small; Salvatore Contiguglia, whose brilliant work in breaking up opponents' play was remarkable; and Tommy Stapleton, a dependable and handsome youth from the Vocational School, who made an excellent center.

But the Year Book beckons us on to other fields. Oh, here is the Prom which was the most eventful affair of the year. Again the Armory was gayly decorated with varied hues of red and pink, to which the juniors added an alluring effect with their colorful gowns. To this day we shall remember the enthusiasm and delight with which we received the delicate charm bracelet, and the boys' surprise when handed a red carnation for their tuxedos.

We have but to turn another page to find ourselves in the middle of winter sports. The picture of the basketball team, brings back thoughts of that exciting sport with Frank Cosolito, a tall, dark, lad, ever making a last minute basket for the Blue and White. To us, no sport was complete without that great Bob Margarita, whose passing and guarding ability were the delight of many games. We remember with what satisfaction we heard that John King, a quiet, loyal player, and Bob Margarita had been chosen co-captains for their senior year.

Ah! Oh, yes, this track team too, had a very successful year with John Martis, a modest, light-haired youth, who contributed greatly to the credit of our school by his remarkable high-jumping. We can recall too, the amazement when we heard it announced at Mount Hood, Melrose, that a student from Medford High had won first prize for the cross-country ski race. This winner was Donald Reid, the great track star and skiing king.

That same winter the book recounts many a thrill and many a spill, at the hockey games. An able comrade, was Walter DeVoe, who rushed up and down the ice with hockey stick, his courage holding every enemy. The cheers were loud when Joe Wood, the boy with the inspiring personality, was given a chance to show his ability to put Medford High School hockey in its rightful position.

The school program was enlarged by the addition of several new activities. The Camera Club was organized with Norman Ashton, an ambitious boy, as President. We can just see him bobbing around with a camera, taking snapshots for the school magazine. Many of our classmates helped to form a history club. Even now we can picture William Goodwin, a loyal supporter of the club, reciting the history of Medford to the children in the street.

Great enthusiasm greeted field hockey; and, in spite of the many bruised shins, every member of the team was interested in it. The picture of small but capable "Connie" Del Ninno, dribbling the ball down to mid-field is still bright in our memory. For basketball, tennis, hockey, and baseball, we can remember many outstanding girls. Of those, though, Anna Malatesta was perhaps the best; Christina Murphy, a loyal player who put her heart into every game; and Ella Englehutt, we can never forget, for they were true sports, ever helping the team on to victory.

Later to memory comes that talented violinist, Anthony Biecheri, who played the sweetest music of the year. He was an earnest boy — who should do well in the musical world. Our greatest joy would be to hear his melodies again.

With inspiration such as this, it is not hard to imagine why we juniors were the happiest of classes. As we stood at the threshold of the senior year, our class became host to the graduating seniors. Before we knew it the junior year was just a sweet memory; thus we turned with spirits high for another year.

Who could say that '39 was not one of the finest classes ever graduated? In fact, who can say that any one of Medford High's classes is not splendid? But just to reassure ourselves that we, Seniors, were not seeking idle, empty praise, let us review again in our Year Book the records which we left behind us, and the capable, active, and worthwhile boys and girls who made '39 what it was. While it is not worthy to eulogize oneself and one's achievements, neither is there virtue in hiding one's candle under a bushel.

Even as we open this book, we recall the Senior year which started with a swish and a flutter as the class of '39 marched through the vast corridors of the great institution with majestic mien. Ah! well that is just the way we felt. Probably this feeling inspired our very careful choice of class officers. Do you remember that we chose gallant Bob Margarita, President; popular Cynthia Child, Vice-President; gracious Mary Rogers, Secretary; and efficient Thomas Daly, Treasurer? Was there ever a finer slate of officers? I recall how these four eminent personages chose an advisory council of sixteen, who worked with diligence to make our Senior year an outstanding one.

Let us turn the pages quickly to athletics. Ah, football! Exciting memories always arise when we start to talk of football; to this day I thrill at the work of our varsity team. At every game Bob Margarita punted his way straight into our hearts; Captain Contiguglia, who knew his football from A to Z, shrugged his shoulders like a veteran; and the dauntless Clem Burns, Johnny Furey, a mighty end, fearless Joe Wood, and Phil Walcott, so shy and reserved in the classroom, became a whirlwind of attack when there was a football in sight. These boys will remain with us always as our knights of football.

That same fall, New England, which had always felt itself safe from such a catastrophe as a hurricane, became a football in the hands of nature. Trees were brought to earth like match sticks and falling wires added their deadly menace to the storm. The hurricane faced worthy opponents in the well-built houses of New England. Nature managed to win the victory, but we take off our hats to the valiant efforts of New England, which struggled against great odds. But a mere hurricane did not bother us. This excitement over, we high school students found in basketball the same array of fighting youths. A tremendous burden dropped on the sturdy shoulders of Johnny King, when Margarita was forced to forego basketball; but this quiet Medford lad proved himself a heady and courageous leader, aided and abetted by the lanky Frank Cosolito. This page reminds us how our track team was kept in the thick of the fight all the way down the line by the individual exploits of driving Davy Blair and barrel-chested Don Reid, and I remember also that it was mainly the fiery play of Danny Crowley, and the steady-going captain, Walter Devoe, a natural team man, which inspired the Ice-tangs to finish up a successful season. Our baseball team of '39, captained by Danny Mack, a master in his line, furnished Medford baseball fans many a thrill.

However, lest you think that our ability was all one-sided, the Blue Book tells a different story. You graduates of '39 remember Dorothy English — here she is — our Valedictorian, a girl of genius in many ways; Charlotte Adler, our class Essayist, with a smile for everyone, and our honor pupils, golden-haired Mary Boyd, energetic Robert Casagrande, Thomas Dyer, whose courtesy was a daily lesson in good manners to all of us, Jenny Cerullo, a girl of high ideals, William Glynn, one of our history makers, Sumner Kitchen, slow of speech but quick at grasping knowledge, Frances Mosesian, her frank, lovable nature made for enduring friendships, and several others.

The book reminds us that besides producing honor students, Senior year, we were able to discover remarkably good actors and actresses. Looking backward a few years I can still hear the applause of the audience for Fred Whittemore as the grouchy father; Donald King, the son, whose cold was so true to life that the members of the audience were soon sneezing! Mary King as the flirtatious Florence Wheeler, and Annabel Cofran, the winsome heroine of our class play, New Brooms, who displayed only one of her many arts, for I was always charmed to hear her lovely voice.

All our musical enterprises developed wonderfully that year, and the band, orchestra, and the chorus brought their talents together in April in a most successful concert at the Cousens Gymnasium.

The big social event of the year was the Senior Prom, and a grand prom it was, too!

* * * *

The Year Book is closed, but a vital memory remains to be recalled. A single cloud marred the horizon that year! In the fall of 1938, a dear and loyal friend departed from our midst. In the passing of Hila Helen Small, Medford High School lost not only an inspiring teacher and loyal friend but a beautiful character. Hers was a stimulating personality, optimistic, self-forgetting, and brave. Her tireless industry was a rebuke to the shiftless; her courageous spirit an inspiration to the deserving and honest. It is honor enough to be able to say of anyone as can be said of her, "She never spared herself."

* * * *

Somehow from that time on life meant more to us. We turned our thoughts ahead, for we knew full well that to reach our goal, we had to strive with all our strength and will.

We felt, indeed we still feel grateful to Mr. Kendall for teaching us two lessons: first, the value of education; second, the necessity of cooperation. May we ever carry these maxims with us on the road of life. Words cannot express our appreciation to the city of Medford in enabling us to take our places in the world much richer for our books, our companionships, and our teachers; and because of them we have learned to play the game of life with fairness, intelligence, and cooperation.

MEDFORD HIGH SCHOOL ORCHESTRA

Medford High School Orchestra

The High School Orchestra plays for the school assemblies, the Senior Class Play, the Prize Speaking Contest, Class Day exercises, and many club and civic activities in the city.

The orchestra has steadily increased in size; this year there are sixty members. In addition to the increased number, our orchestra has improved greatly in playing ability. This change is indeed the result of hard work on the part of the members and fine guidance of its director, Mr. Ralph I. Schoonmaker.

One may safely say that this year's orchestra is the largest and the best that Medford High School has ever had and that it will continue to improve and ably represent our school in the music field.

Medford High School Band

After several summer rehearsals in 1938, the Medford High School Band, under the direction of Ralph I. Schoonmaker, was ready to participate during the 1939 football season. The band was chosen by the Eastern Music Educators Conference to be the "clinic band" during the conference which took place at the Hotel Statler. This was a most interesting and educational experience. The band also took part in a radio broadcast aimed to make Medford bigger and better. The Music Festival at Cousens Gym, Tufts College, was the result of great effort and long hours of hard work on the part of the members of the band. We feel that Mr. Schoonmaker should be highly commended for the success of the 1938-39 season.

As a climax to the year's activity, the Medford High School Band has been invited to participate at the New York World's Fair. The year has been highly successful, and we hope that future years will bring even more credit to the members of the band, the director, and most important of all, the school.

Under the capable leadership of its president, John Martis, the House of Delegates continued its active part in school affairs. The school banking system, first mentioned in the House last year, was put into effect. A traffic committee established "one-way" passing in the cross-overs, thus enabling greater ease in getting from one building to the other. An honor system, which will be put into effect next year, was perfected.

In December a group of delegates attended the Eastern Division Student Councils' meeting at Roxbury Memorial High School.

Throughout the year, the House of Delegates has lived up to its ideal of service, and it has always been ready to lend a helping hand to other school organizations.

Crowded close together
Breathing just by turns
Lunchroom eating is an art
But one learns!

Papers in the baskets
Papers on the floor
Hundreds of students
Crowding through the door.

Hundreds of students
Eating all at once
Some buy tickets
Others bring their lunch.

Some eat sandwiches
Some drink milk
Jostled close together
Spilling soup on silk.

Elbows so entangled
Lunches get mixed
You eat your neighbor's,
He eats what you fixed.

As usual, the year 1938-1939 found the Protective Department maintaining its usual high standard of work. Under the tutelage of Messrs. Pidgeon and Osgood, the capable advisers of the corps, the department performed its duties in an efficient, dependable manner.

This year the boys supervised the new one-way traffic in the cross-overs. Their diligence was rewarded by the simplification of passing between periods and less confusion in the corridors. The members of the Protective Department also deserve commendation for their fine work in keeping the halls clear during the recess periods. Those of us who have tried to enter a building, the occupants of which were not at lunch, discovered how very well the department carries out its orders.

The Protective Department is a well-organized group, always ready to help make our school a better place in which to work and play. May it be as successful in the future as it has been in the past.

"REVIEW" STAFF

Musical Memoirs

On Friday night, December 16, 1938, the M Club instituted what promises to be an annual affair. Musical Memoirs, directed and written by Mr. Ricker, showed the burly football, hockey, basketball, and baseball players cavorting in a fashion which brought to mind the gay '90's, wire protective screens, and buxom chorines.

Included in the program were excellent specialties, which thrilled the enthusiastic audience.

Red Poehler's Polar Bears inaugurated the program at precisely eight o'clock. The trumpet of Poehler was particularly devastating in Blue Skies, drawing a cheer from the expectant capacity throng and launching the program on an auspicious note.

The assembly was in ecstasies because of the interpretation of the Glamour Girls of Broadway and the Mustang Maestros of Ballad and Terpsichory. An opening chorus of seven stanzas was drowned by the spontaneous reception.

Vincent Carcione presented a monologue, impersonating Head Coach O'Connor of the football squad. "Okie's" dolorous traits and pessimistic tendencies were vividly portrayed.

Again the athletes returned to the wars with an interpretation of the hanging of Pappy. The Old Apple Tree was the vehicle in which Colaggero, Burns, and Furey starred. A collapsible stepladder served as the apple tree and casket.

Betty and Joe Moore impressed with their tap dance routine. Beecy was also impressive in his buck and wing dance. These two numbers were executed with professional skill by the high school pupils.

Aurelio Codimachio regaled the audience with his wooden dummy, Larry the Blockhead, who bested his partner in an original argument on many grounds.

Joe Moore as the girl and Larry Zarella as the hero, supported by an athletic cast who "trucked" and "suzekued" to the music of A Tisket A Tasket, gave a truly invigorating version of the loss and discovery of the little yellow basket.

Victor Contardo and his stooges were very effective in their Harmonica Harmony, a number combining comedy and good music.

Accompanied by Tramonte, Allesandrini rendered two classical numbers which gave play to his exceptional range and volume. A note of the classic was lent to the production by this lad's interpretation.

Van Oosten and his violin followed with a superb performance. Much of a truly commendable rendition was lost on the younger element of a lively and boisterous audience.

Frank Fardie, who was a very competent master of ceremonies, introduced the opening number of Act II. Snow White and her seven dwarfs appeared in the workshop, bedroom, palace, and yard of the dwarfs. At work the little men, played by football lads, sang and marched to Just Whistle While You Work. Daniel Brienze as Snow White identified the seven elves in their beds. Then the metamorphosis of the Queen to Witch was portrayed by Joe Moore as the charming and villianous queen and Francis Hardy as the ugly and horrendous witch. Prince Charming, played by Bob

HIGHLIGHTS OF "MUSICAL MEMOIRS"

Margarita, was driven into the well yard of the elves in his wheelbarrow chariot by his horse which was aptly interpreted by Joe Colaggero. The Prince bore away Snow White after she had sung her Wishing Well, assisted by Arleen Smith as Echo from the well. Arleen Smith then sang two entertaining and charming numbers.

A monologue by Herbert Lacey threatened to develop into personal injury for the performer; hence after Lacey had regaled the audience and was beginning to engage in individual repartee, the director applied quietus in the form of the much feared Hook. Lacey received an enthusiastic encore.

Patricia and Janet Putnam, accompanied by Miss Edna Thorpe, did an expert song and dance number which rated two encores. Their performance was one of the high points of the evening's entertainment.

Impersonating followers of the football team, Mr. Ricker struck a sympathetic note. Anxious to see more of the prominent men lampooned, the audience called for an encore.

In Oh Mama! the athletes outdid themselves. Paul Murphy as Mama was impressive against the background of husky choristers.

Daniel Brienze received an encore for his songs. They came over the amplifying system with remarkable likeness to the songs of a prominent radio star. It was a fine job by a talented singer in popular style.

A college medley and the alphabet songs by the Locker Room Boys in various stages of preparation for practice were acclaimed by the audience.

Moore and Beecy did two more dance numbers. More's acrobatic gyrations were a source of wonder to the spectators. Beecy's soft shoe work was indicative also of much experience.

The Finale brought to an end the first production by the M Club of Medford High School. A successful performance heralded future ventures by the boys. In a worthy cause the boys were fortunate beyond expectations.

Although the show was the work of high school pupils the M Club thanks wholeheartedly Miss Virginia Armstrong, costumer for Harvard Hasty Pudding shows, who provided the costumes which immeasurably aided in the ultimate success. Bud Harvey of the Medford Mercury was of infinite aid in accompanying the chorus numbers.

To the Vocational School goes the credit for a mural design which was the background for the entire opus. A large center mural and six flanking murals of various Snow White scenes were all done by the boys of the Vocational school in forty-eight hours' time. The beds in the Snow White scene also were made by the Vocational School and all lighting effects were produced by the Electrical Department of that school.

For cooperating in making Musical Memoirs a distinct success, the M Club here extends thanks to all who were instrumental.

FOOTBALL SQUAD

Football

In the spring of 1938 Medford High School football, under the direction of its new head coach, Tom O'Connor, and his assistants, Henry Buckley and Jit Ricker, made its debut. Over two hundred and seventy boys answered the call, thereby launching splendidly the new season under its new mentor. Of the two hundred and seventy, S. Contiguglia, the captain, J. Furey, M. Moschella, P. Walcott were lettermen.

For six weeks the lads, cut to forty-four after the first eight days, labored in the hot sun to master the fundamentals which were needed to build a representative eleven. A game between two evenly chosen squads marked the final day of spring practice.

On August twenty-six Head Coach O'Connor and his assistants inaugurated the fall season with two strenuous workouts. From that date until school opened two sessions a day were in order. Scrimmages were held with Lowell High School and Cambridge High and Latin School. The boys were in excellent shape to open the season.

MEDFORD 13 — SAUGUS 0

Medford's 1938 edition overcame Saugus in the season's opener. The first half was a stalemate with numerous runs by Burns of Saugus featuring. The Blue and White made the most of its two opportunities in the second half, scoring two touchdowns and one point after. At times the Medford team worked with machine-like precision. The inexperience of the boys, however, caused glaring errors. Ted Alves did a fine job of blocking for Margarita and Zarella, with Clem Burns starring at left end.

MELROSE 12 — MEDFORD 0

The inexperience of the Medford backs alone was responsible for Melrose's two touchdowns. At times Medford flashed power, but, on the whole, looked far from the impressive band which had subdued Saugus the previous Saturday. Sheridan of Melrose and Parham of Medford seemed good.

BROCKTON 7 — MEDFORD 6

Tom O'Connor's boys, ye!pt Mustangs, journeyed to the bailiwick of the State Champions of 1937 to outfight, outgain, outcharge, and all but outscore them. Cap't. Contiguglia scored our touchdown on an intercepted pass, going sixty-five yards for the score. Another Contiguglia interception and run of forty-eight yards was called back because of an off-side penalty. Buckley of Brockton scored a touchdown on an attempted pass. Seeing everyone covered, he slipped around Medford's left end, cut back, and scored standing up. Dodero's game-winning kick was partially blocked by Burns. The Mustangs were a revived band of fighters with Margarita's kicking, also Edgerly's running, and the play of the line was superb against the superior weight of the Brockton team. The condition of the Blue and White players was easily superior.

MEDFORD 7 — SOMERVILLE 7

Scoring on a pass soon after a fumbled punt gave the boys an opportunity on Medford's twenty-six yard line, Somerville relinquished control of the game immediately to an aroused Mustang outfit. Medford was denied a touchdown on Margarita's eighty-yard run and lateral to Murphy when "Margy" was detected passing the ball forward. In the second half a stirring sustained march of eighty-four yards resulted in a touchdown. Margarita then scored the point after on a rush. The play of the Blue and White was inspiring. Everyone did a marvelous job, with Margarita, Edgerly, and Zarella scintillating behind a hard-charging, fighting line. Murphy at center dominated the line play.

CHEERLEADERS

MEDFORD 41 — WORCESTER NORTH 0

The first team enjoyed a picnic for six minutes, scoring twenty points. Then Coach O'Connor sent them in to dress. A zealous second team steamrolled twenty-one points before the third and fourth teams carried the Medford colors. After the game Captain Contiguglia presented the ball to the visiting captain in appreciation of his spirited fight in a losing cause.

MEDFORD 7 — EVERETT 6

An aroused and crippled Medford team came from behind and vanquished Everett at Fulton Street. Walker of Everett scampered seventy-six yards to a touchdown in the first two minutes of play, but Everett missed the point. After driving sixty-four yards for a touchdown, Medford won the ball game when it scored the important point. Again Henry Margarita co-starred with the line. Captain Contiguglia's brother and "Chuck" Edgerly also shone with Zarella in the backfield.

BEVERLY 7 — MEDFORD 0

The "away from home" jinx caught up with the Mustangs as scrappy Beverly overcame Medford at Beverly. Three scoring chances presented themselves to Medford, but we failed to take advantage. Fiore of Beverly was outstanding for the local boys.

MEDFORD 26 — WALTHAM 7

After a rigorous week Medford entertained Waltham, serious contenders for the Class A crown. Within three minutes Medford had twenty points. Margarita scored on the opening kickoff, going eighty-six yards behind beautiful blocking. A Zarella-to-Edgerly pass accounted for the second; next Edgerly skirted end for number three. Waltham came back to win seven points as the second quarter opened. A seventy-five yard march, climaxed by Margarita's run of forty-four yards for a touchdown increased our score to twenty-six points in period three. It would be foolhardy to choose an outstanding man, for the entire eleven did a marvelous team job, although Slug Murphy, Medford center, did more than a creditable job.

MEDFORD 0 — LYNN CLASSICAL 0

All that Medford did was to break that "away from home" jinx. We got eleven first downs to Lynn's two, marched seventy-four yards, and played in that territory all day. Failure to take advantage of opportunities kept Medford from gaining another victory.

MEDFORD 0 — MALDEN 0

With Captain Contiguglia playing his last game and leading Medford in an inspirational manner in his last two games, Medford outplayed a much larger eleven Thanksgiving Day. The boys wanted a victory, but left the field knowing that they played an excellent game. Beside Captain Conti it was the valedictory for Clem Burns, Phil Walcott, Ubaldo Manzo, Joe Wood, Red Hardy, and Henry Margarita. The Mustangs outclassed Malden in every phase of the game; a muddy field handicapping our boys who were outweighed twenty-five pounds to a man. Those underclassmen who are left are looking forward already to Medford's Thanksgiving Day classic with the Malden outfit in 1939. They want to win Medford's first one in eleven years.

In summarizing the season we should be remiss in not saying that Head Coach O'Connor has instilled in his boys a spirit which is reminiscent of former Medford days. He has brought back Medford High School football. Under his tutelage the lads learn not only football tactics, but a moral, spiritual, and physical code which makes a man out of every boy on his squad.

The team is fundamentally sound. Blocking is now the theme of football here at Medford. Blocking, fine condition, and a well-drilled team are synonymous with Tom O'Connor.

Medford will be on top again!

Medford's Hockey team enjoyed a fairly successful season winning the majority of its games.

Captain Walter DeVoe, Dan Crowley, and Bill Riley were selected on the All-Star team.

Bill Riley was elected captain for 1940. Although light and small, Bill was not outplayed by any player he met. Bill scored the winning goal in the All-Star game against Bay-State All-Stars.

Dan Crowley was the most popular player on the team. He was cheered many a time for his performances.

In every game the Medford boys played their hearts out. The team gave a good account of itself in every game.

Walter DeVoe was an inspiring leader, who will be missed next year.

The Varsity Soccer Team completed another successful season winning nine games, losing four, and tying one. The team was one of the few outstanding groups in New England, and much of its success was due to the capable generalship of "Phil" Porcella, Captain.

A second team, formed and directed by Mr. Bohn of the Physical Education Department, also established a fine record, and many good players developed for future varsity teams.

THE SUMMARY

After an absence of two years, Mr. Brooks returned to face the problem of building a team with the aid of only two lettermen, Co-Captains John King and Henry Margarita. The future seemed bright, however, when the team downed the Alumni for the first time in five years by a score of 43 to 38, but the next four games proved to be a forecast of the season.

| Medford | 50 — | Revere | 40 |
| Medford | 20 — | Chelsea | 26 |
| Medford | 44 — | Everett | 39 |
| Medford | 21 — | Somerville | 54 |

Because of the loss of Margarita through physical condition, the defensive burden was thrown on Captain King. His playing at guard and that of Robert Murray and Frank Cosolito at forward, together with last minute goals by Arthur Fusco, defeated Revere, Winthrop, and Melrose.

| | | | |
|---------------|------|----------------|----|
| Medford | 44 — | Revere | 21 |
| Medford | 35 — | Winthrop | 34 |
| Medford | 26 — | Melrose | 25 |

During the remainder of the season, the team showed its potentialities only once. Chelsea trailed all the way to a losing score on its home court for the second time in three years.

MEDFORD 8 — ARLINGTON 7

Playing their first game of the season against a crew that had already been through a pair of battles, the Mustangs of Medford High School edged the Red and Gray of Arlington by a score of 8 - 7. Len Riley, Mustang star left-fielder pounded out a homer and also a triple. George Trebino, with three hits for five times at bat, was the big sticker of the game.

MEDFORD 14 — NORTH QUINCY 1

Coach Terrill in this game used a total of twenty-two players in a six inning walk-away. The game was put on ice in the very first inning when Hughie McIsaac stepped up and cleared the bases with a soaring home run to score three runs in front of him.

MEDFORD 10 — SOMERVILLE 7

After coming from behind the Mustangs edged the strong Red and Blue of Somerville High. It was a see-saw battle all the way until the Mustangs scored four runs in their first half of the ninth inning. Phil Porcella, with two triples and a pair of singles, was the big gun for the Mustangs.

MEDFORD 6 — MALDEN 1

Daisy Hardy pitched the Mustangs to an easy 6 - 1 victory over the Blue and Gold from Malden High. Having perfect control all the way and striking out ten batters, the Mustangs were never in serious trouble.

MEDFORD 13 — MALDEN CATHOLIC 2

Scoring ten runs in the first half of the first inning, the Mustangs won their fifth straight victory over a weak Malden Catholic nine. Bob Margarita was the batting star in this one-sided affair.

REVERE 11 — MEDFORD 5

In one of the biggest upsets of the baseball season Revere defeated Medford at their home field. This game is under protest and will be played over if it hurts Medford's standing in the Greater Boston League.

NORTH QUINCY 3 — MEDFORD 2

A far different Quincy High team from that which lost to the Mustangs at Medford won out by a score of 3 - 2 in a thrilling game played at Quincy.

MEDFORD 7 — CHELSEA 1

Chelsea High traveled to Fulton Street to take a beating from the strong Medford Mustangs. Walter Hughes held the visitors to 6 scattered hits.

BOSTON ENGLISH 9 — MEDFORD 6

Daisy Hardy started on the mound in this game and was found for six runs which the Mustangs could not overcome. Phil Porcella starred in defeat as he hit a homer and a pair of singles.

MEDFORD 22 — MALDEN 10

With the Mustangs batting out 17 hits and scoring 22 runs Medford easily defeated Malden High at Pearl Street. Porcella, Margarita, Patturrelli each made 3 hits.

MEDFORD 5 — ARLINGTON 5

In a Frank Merriwell finish the Mustangs again edged the Red and Gray of Arlington. Held to three hits up until the last half of the ninth inning, the Mustangs then proceeded to make seven straight hits to overcome Arlington's 5 - 1 lead. Len Riley with a homer and a double starred for Medford.

Girls' Softball

The girls' softball team began the first year of varsity competition with five games. There was much enthusiasm and a group of about twenty-five reported for the first practice.

Ruth Galvin, chosen captain, proved to be an efficient pitcher with Grace Robbins, catcher. Marie Miles played third base.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Girls' Basketball

The basketball team, coached by Miss Luce and managed by Ruth Roberts, enjoyed a most spectacular season by winning 5 games out of 9.

Captain Anna Malatesta and Phyllis Dachowski, both Seniors, displayed some marvelous guarding; without them the opposing teams would have had more victories to their credit.

At the end of the season the following players were awarded letters:

| | | |
|--------------------------------|-------------------|----------------------|
| Anna Malatesta, Captain | Madeline Labadini | Ellen Englehutt |
| Ruth Roberts, Manager | Claire Clabby | Phyllis Dachowski |
| Bertha Blaine | Madeline Dugger | Elaine Call |
| Constance Del Ninno | Marjorie Morgan | Frances Beech |
| Christina Murphy | | Elizabeth Pellegrino |

The second team players, led by Betty Lordan, also deserve credit for winning 7 out of 9 games. The prospects for a successful season next year are very bright.

The field hockey team, coached by Miss Luce and managed by Doris Matthews, had a busy season this year. Practice was held every Monday and Wednesday at Park Street Field. Anna Malatesta, the captain, did an excellent job in leading her team on the field. Constance Del Ninno should be praised for her excellent dribbling while Ruth Galvin did a marvelous job as the first string goalie. Ruth Egan took her place as the Blue and White full-back. Other players who helped make the team a success were Marjorie Morgan, Marie Brown, inners; Mary Burnham, center half; Christina Murphy, wing.

The 1939 season saw the Girls' Tennis Team playing a larger schedule with the stronger teams of Greater Boston. In the spring matches with Somerville, Newton, and Malden, Medford defeated Somerville 3 to 1; Newton defeated Medford 5 to 0; and Malden defeated Medford 5 to 0. In the fall, Medford won two matches over Somerville, with three incompletd. We added the strong Combridge Latin team to our schedule which defeated us 4 to 1.

At the close of the 1939 season, the following girls were awarded letters: Constance Del Ninno, Claire Gibbons, Marylin Coney, Virginia Shaulis, Rebecca Moore, Betsey Norton, Eleanor Desmond, Shirley Anderson, Philomena Testa, and Betty Fargo.

Afterword

OUR DAYS at Medford High School have come to an end. Before us lie the unexplored fields of the future. In going on, however, it is well to remember the past, and it is the sincere hope of the staff of The Blue and White that this book will recall the happy days spent here at Medford High.
